

Bioresonance therapy

Likharev VA

Treatment of allergy by bioresonance therapy.

Bioresonance therapy based on the teachings of the Five Elements.

Bioresonance therapy (BRT) - a new direction in therapeutic and preventive medicine. Devices bioresonance therapy work with the vibrations of the human body according to the principle of induction. Because the typical patient variations and the signals are electromagnetic nature, and possible transmission by cable, which was proved experimentally (Schimel, 1978). Removal of them from the patient's body by using the electrode cable, direct them to the device. Passing through precision device that converts vibrations in reverse polarity, they are returned to the patient in the form of enhanced information on the second cable. This leads to a blurring or reducing the volume of pathological information. The purpose of this therapy is to neutralize the pathological oscillations in the patient and the activation of immune forces of organism. If you do not use any external energy (low-frequency, ultrasonic vibrations, etc.), all variations are physiological. Used only part of the energy fluctuations, located within the audio spectrum.

Device for bioresonance therapy F. Morelli and E. Rashi "Akutest-BRT", a device of new generation. The device is programmable. ie, it allows the base bioresonance therapy in the automatic mode, the pre-set physician program. With two independent channels, the device allows you to make the therapeutic path homeopathic remedies, without loss, as well as allowing independent settings working channels. The device is equipped not only with all the necessary work of the electrodes, but also a small basic set of test vials. The principle effect is the dynamic adaptation of cybernetic a regulatory circuit, ie create a device for bioresonant therapy reverse swing causes the patient a new output information, which, in turn, becomes the basis for a new vibration, and so on during the entire period of therapy.

For treatment in devices for bioresonance therapy is used so-called "vibrational model patient." In this case, the principle izoterapii "aequalia aequalibus curentur". However, as a therapeutic agent used does not matter and materials organism of the patient (as is usual in "biochemical" izoterapii - autonozody) and its electromagnetic oscillations, ie You can talk about "biophysical" izoterapii. Bioresonance therapy works in the biophysical plane, being the electromagnetic resonance therapy. The device ivertiruet pathological oscillations and returns them to the patient. The electromagnetic field of the patient immediately respond to these therapeutic signals. This process is repeated for a second, suppressing and eliminating pathological oscillations and gradually restoring the physiological dynamic equilibrium. It starts the process of self-healing organism.

So, bioresonance therapy - it is not electroacupuncture. It does not use any positive or negative pulses. When therapy with devices for bioresonance therapy the patient is faced with electric shocks no more than if he spoke into the microphone or listening to music on headphones.

Applicability

Bioresonance therapy is especially effective in cases where the achievement of therapeutic success of traditional methods is impossible or involves more time and other costs. It combines the principles of such treatments as acupuncture, electropuncture by Voll, homeopathy, nosode, izoterapiya, nevroterapiya and many others, not trying to replace any of them.

Indications are the same as that of a homeopathic treatment, acupuncture and biomedicine in general. In the first place - a chronic degenerative diseases, rheumatism, weakening of the immune system, allergies. Pain of all kinds. Neuralgic pains, rheumatism neuralgia, tumor pre-and post-operative pain, painful healing wounds, and postoperative treatment. Asthma, bronchitis, gastritis, duodenitis, ulcers, pain in the formation of malignant tumors. Therapeutic effects may occur at any body and organ systems. Some diseases for which therapeutic success is achieved: migraine, chronic and acute diseases of the lymphatic system, heart and cardiovascular disease, pancreatitis, pancreatic cyst, uterine and ovarian cancers, diabetes in adults and children, cystitis, nephritis, scarring, pre-and postoperative treatment in dentistry. Allergies, especially food, sleep disorders, all kinds of toxic effects, including poisoning, susceptibility to infections in children, sexual incompatibility on Rh-factor, epikondillit and much more.

Boundaries of

Count on the success of the bioresonant therapy - therapy in the treatment can be any state in which the essential role played by electromagnetic waves, information, whether it be disease or health information. This is a very large scope. Do not know any one area of medicine, which would not play any role the natural oscillations of the patient. We can therefore say that attempts to apply this method there are no borders and contraindications.

There is always a chance that even with serious illnesses or life-threatening conditions, with elimination of pathological oscillations can make improvements. And then, amid improved the condition, may be followed by the necessary therapy, eg surgery. The risk she will be greatly reduced.

And yet there are states whose existence causes the impossibility of using Bioresonance therapy. These reasons, indicating the boundary of the method can be divided as follows:

Anatomical reasons.

As an example of the complex anatomical reasons could cause the bones, poorly fused after the fracture. We are talking about such a final state to which the method bioresonant therapy - therapy has no effect, namely: either the improper position of the bones, nor the consequent pain and functional disorders. But during the phase matching fracture using this method can be very large. It accelerates the coalescence, decreases pain and accelerates as the overall recovery process.

In severe poisoning, ie when "sinking" toxins, bioresonance therapy or therapy is not enough effective. It should be borne in mind that in such cases, the biochemical effect of the toxin of their mass is so "superior" effects of electromagnetic information, which could be in this case, "turn off" that the elimination of pathological oscillations will be unsuccessful. One can hardly imagine that in the case of acute arsenic poisoning may save the patient with bioresonance therapy treatment, although, however, these attempts simply not happening.

In contrast, there toxicosis, which completely fall within the scope of indications for bioresonance therapy - therapy, and in the first place, such poisoning, which is not based on external and domestic causes. This refers to the uremic or diabetic coma. In emergency situations such method bioresonance therapy - therapy can be very useful.

Psychiatric causes

These psychiatric illnesses such as schizophrenia and manic-depressive psychosis, of course are not areas of bioresonance therapy, at least the primary (direct and straight).

To mental health reasons, which here particularly means, we should treat spiritual problems, never otsenivemye as a disease, not to mention the fact that they were taken to treat doctors or psychiatrists. Such issues represent the broad field of diseases, which are not involved in classical psychiatry. These can include the patients who actually had something for myself would be lost if they vyzdroveli would in fact, for those who frequently visit doctors and healers, none of them do not stay long, do not follow instructions, no one therapy, or prematurely terminate her and find hundreds of excuses. But all this is the basis for evidence that they are sick and should be pitied, and that everyone else but not themselves (including doctors and healers) are responsible for what they are in such condition. If they vyzdroveli, it would lose one of the most important goals in life: to blame others.

Regarding the reaction of patients with these psychoses, schizophrenia and depression cyclic data no studies have been conducted. But it seems that in certain cases bioresonant therapy therapy would fit as a method of treatment. The point here would take on such cases in which there is an opportunity to extinguish the pathological oscillations, which participated in the formation or maintenance of the disease.

A fragile state and can not be removed by the method bioresonance therapy. Lack of vitamins, no minerals and trace elements, iron deficiency, lack of insulin. Missing substance must be replaced. The spectrum of electromagnetic oscillations is quite wide: from a few to billions of hertz. Not all of this spectrum are vital. Man lives not only with their swings, and depends not only on them. In order to survive, it needs some vibrations coming from the outside, the sun, planets and entire universe, as well as from the internal content of our planet. If, however, is depleted or even lack the necessary life-oscillations of this kind, then there are the disease. bioresonant therapy - therapy, dealing with the ordering of the electromagnetic oscillations of the body of the patient, can not help in this case. Vibration must be replaced. First of all, it is variations in natural light and Shumanov wave alternating electromagnetic fields.

Principles bioresonance therapy.

The underlying principle bioresonance therapy is an inversion: oscillations taken from the hands of the patient, are fed to the device, inverted 180 degrees, amplified and fed from the output device on the other hand the patient. In this pathological oscillations are damped (eliminated), and normal, physiological, only slightly weakened, which is a factor of trainees.

To increase the efficiency bioresonance therapy treatment appropriate to carry out filtering fluctuations. Studies have shown that bio resonant therapy treatment to some extent equivalent gomeo therapy and izo-therapy. Spectra of homeopathic remedies are as follows: low potency, up to D 6 are the spectrum up to 300 Hz, medium, from D 6 to D 12 - from 300 to 1000 Hz, high potency, from D12 to D 200 - from 100 Hz to 10000 Hz. In line with this, treatment of acute conditions appropriate to use low-pass filter (LPF) with boundary frequencies up to 1000 Hz, and for the treatment of chronic - high pass filter on (SLA) with the cutoff frequency of 1000 Hz or more. In some cases, for example, for the treatment of allergic conditions appropriate to work without a filter, the whole range, from a few hertz to hundreds of kilohertz.

In acute diseases are usually enough 1-3 treatment sessions, 5 sessions is needed already in rare cases.

In chronic diseases in most cases require 5 - 10 sessions.

Another feature of the devices for bio resonance therapy is the presence of so-called "interval" mode, treatment with pauses. After some certain time therapy body needs time without treatment, to be able to react. Time of therapy or treatment units is also called therapeutic pulses. Their duration is usually set from 1 to 15 seconds, is the same length of pauses. Typical value: Therapy - 3 seconds, pause - 1 second.

Several devices for bio resonance therapy, produced in Germany, such as "BICOM", "RITEC 2000" and several other contain a device called a separator. The separator allows the separation of physiological and pathological variations. Physiological fluctuations unchanged returned to the patient, and pathological inverted, amplified, and also received for subsequent therapy. Typically, a separator - an expensive and very complex device. At the same time, the clinical results obtained with the help of a separator, do not exceed the results obtained without a separator.